Supplementary Volume, No. I
of the Harvard Theological Review

By the late

CHARLES CARROLL EVERETT

Bussey Professor of Theology and Dean of the Faculty of Divinity, Harvard University.

Theism and the Christian Faith

Edited by Edward Hale, from students' notes.

Cloth, xviii + 492 pages, $2.50 net, postpaid $2.75.

THIS volume gives the substance of Dr. Everett's main course on Theology, including theism and the doctrines of Christianity. His line of thought develops the implications of the three ideas of the reason,—truth, goodness, and beauty,—and so proceeds to the study of the problems of theology and of the position of Christianity among religions.

The recovery of the lectures by Mr. Hale's skilful use of several sets of students' notes (in part stenographic) has been performed with more than ordinary success, and Dr. Everett's students will recognize the living form and manner of his discourse.

The volume is published as Supplementary Volume, No. I, of the Harvard Theological Review, and it is for that reason possible to offer it at the price of $2.50.

"A book which . . . no thoughtful minister can well afford to leave out of his library, unless he can borrow it. . . . The calm, impartial discussion of great themes in these pages."—The Auburn Seminary Record.

"This book again brings to one's notice Professor Everett's almost unrivalled faculty of illustration. . . . Perhaps no book dealing with the themes of which this book treats was ever before published so abounding in a wealth of aptly chosen illustrations. . . . To the preacher who is dealing with life at first hand, and who wants ideas that are immediately applicable to the needs of human souls surrounding him, this book is of the highest value. . . . Few books on homiletics are half as useful to the man who has a weekly sermon to produce, for here are practically all the themes on which the preacher needs to speak set forth in outlines with convincing power."—The Christian Register.
